First type approval supplier of qualified service of electronic registered delivery of the EIDAS regulation

Lleida.net has been awarded the eIDAS type-approval on its qualified service on certified electronic delivery (E-delivery). It has become the first Spanish company to receive it, and the sixth in Europe to attain the aforementioned type-approval.

The type-approval results from efforts and investment in R+D that Lleida.net has been performing in recent years. Moreover, the system is based in a method for which Lleida.net has applied for a worldwide patent.

In addition, the type-approval means that it can be used at European level without any national restriction, and their certifications should be admitted by default by any European court or agency.
