Alternative financing: synonymous with growth

On May 13th, BME, in collaboration with Instituto de Crédito Oficial -ICO-, organized the conference “ICO financing for listed companies and other investment capital alternatives” in which some ICO’s financial products, aiming at covering all the stages of business development, were detailed. The event gathered a large number of enterprises and investors including some MAB companies that explained how alternative funding sources have boosted their business. MORE +

MAB to keep the IPO’s trend during 2019

The MAB has revealed itself as the market for both innovative SME and REITs IPO. In this sense, during 2019, this alternative market has registered five incorporations, a similar path to that achieved in the previous three years. MORE +

MAB’s REITs increase capital by more than 500 million during 2019

REIT companies listed on the MAB have increased their capital by more than 500 million this year, as stated by Jesús González -Managing Director of MAB-, during his participation in the III Real Estate Forum sponsored by the Spanish newspaper “El Español”. It is important to bear in mind that funding (through capital increases) achieved by the MAB companies in 2018 reached 1.170 million euro. MORE +

Guide to go public... although you are a small company

SMEs also have the opportunity to be listed on a stock exchange in order to benefit from all the advantages that the capital markets offer (liquidity, daily and objective valuation, visibility and brand image, access to the investment community, professionalization of business management, incentives for workers, etc.).

In the light of the above, BME relies on “BME 4Companies”, an initiative that seeks both, to accompany enterprises in their participation in the markets and their incorporation. This initiative is closely related to the Pre-Market Environment, which offers start-ups and SMEs the chance to gain further insight into the stock market functioning and approach new investors.
