BME Growth as an inorganic growth tool: ATRYS successfully completes the acquisition of ASPY and multiplies its size

This new success case illustrates one of the main advantages for companies to list on BME Growth: the flexibility of growing inorganically through M&A transactions and being able to pay partially the amount in own shares as they have an objective valuation granted by the market.

With this acquisition, which involves the exclusion of ASPY's shares from trading on BME Growth, ATRYS reaches a capitalization of € 650 million, approximately, and will now have more than 2,000 employees.

BME incorporates CANAAN, IBOARDINGS and TELICE into the Pre-Market Environment

By joining, these three companies show investors their innovative capacity, consolidated activity and vision for growth.

CANAAN RESEARCH & INVESTMENTS, a business group that operates in the biotechnology sector, IBOARDINGS, a company that develops innovative solutions for the airport industry, and TELICE, a well-established company with extensive experience in the railway sector, are the three companies that join this BME's training and networking programme earlier this month.

Since its launch in 2017, already 25 companies have joined the Pre-Market Environment.
